The Winning Edge

Lex Machina's Legal Analytics for Police Misconduct provides valuable data-driven insights and trends in police misconduct case timing, resolutions, damages, remedies, and findings.
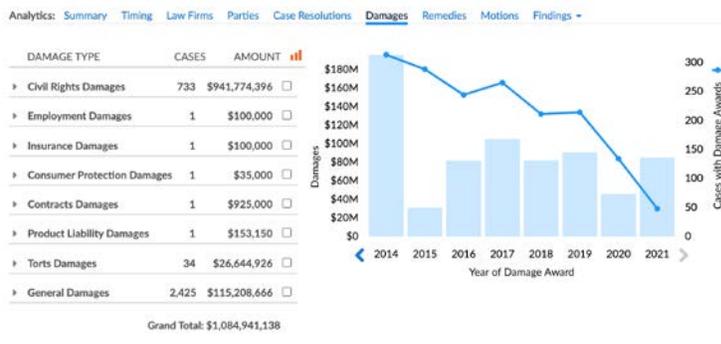

Our case set includes cases alleging a violation of the plaintiff's civil rights by one of the following:

- a law enforcement officer acting under color of law
- a political subdivision (e.g., the city, township, or county) employing that officer
- a supervisory official responsible for the law enforcement officer who violated plaintiff's rights

Lex Machina helps you answer questions such as:

- Which cases had the highest amounts of punitive damages awarded in the last year? What were the specific amounts and what happened in those cases?
- Which law firms have the most experience representing defendants in police misconduct cases in federal court?
- Has my judge ever ruled on Monell liability? If so, how did they rule and at what stage of litigation?
- How many police misconduct cases resolved at trial and how often did claimants win?
- What is the median time to termination for police misconduct cases in the Southern District of New York?
